Breed Description

The Brussels Griffon is a small toy dog weighing between 5 - 15 pounds. He comes in two coats, a smooth coat like a Pug, and a rough coat like a Schnauzer. He comes in four colors. Red which can be from buff color to deep mahogany, belge which has black hairs mixed in with red, solid black and black with tan points. The ears may be cropped or uncropped of various size and shape. The tail is usually docked short. The most distinguishing feature of this breed is the face. He has a short muzzle with the nose placed high between the eyes in good specimens and the nose is lower set on dogs of lesser quality. The eyes are large and appealing. Many people see the dog's expression as almost human while others think he looks monkey-like. An ungroomed rough coat may be quite hairy, matted and look very unkept.
